Mediatix reports school news

In the corner of room 222 is hidden an atmospheric 5' x 10' office wallpapered with Mediatix posters, charts, bills, and back-issues. Nearly every evening the staff can be found there working to produce the most important mass media of MND, known to the subscribing public as Mediatix. In their attempts to update Mediatix the staff of '65 initiated various new columns of interest to all. Student ideas were voiced through Opinionnaire and Dear Mountaineers. The fashion column and Book Look offered hints in other areas.

With continued support from the student body and faculty Mediatix will carry on its tradition as an award winning publication.

"Each one wishing happiness . . ."

Whether dancing, enjoying refreshments, or just socializing, the juniors enjoyed this wish-come-true on November 28 at their semi-formal, "Three Coins in a Fountain."

As they danced to the swaying rhythm of the Phi Mu Alpha Band, a twelve piece orchestra from the University of Cincinnati, many admired the beautifully lighted fountain which set off the decorations of the evening. Miniature fountains and coin-shaped cookies on the tables carried the theme through decorations and refreshments.

"How Time Slips Away" was the theme for the senior semi-formal held on January 2, and time passed swiftly for the dancers as well as for those who were "sitting this one out."

While dancing to the music of the "Five Sharps," the seniors were reminded of the theme by decorations representative of memories. Holiday cookies and punch were served in the cafeteria, and, although the theme was nostalgic, the spirit was gay and the atmosphere happy.

the staff of '65 as Mountain Lore materializes

What makes a Mountain Lore? Patience, perseverance, cooperation, and a way-out sense of humor are helpful starters. Add attractive layouts, clever copy, eye-catching photography, and a wealth of ads and it's off to the publisher in time for that all-important deadline.

This year the staff of '65 has worked unceasingly to achieve the high standards of our predecessors and to produce a lighter, brighter yearbook. We now proudly present the results of our best efforts, the all new Mountain Lore for '65.

J. Birkmeyer, C. Miracle, J. A. Brinkman, C. Back, K. Doerger, P. Ward, S. Woodley, M. Obert, J. Kampschmidt, and W. Eha put in the many hours necessary to make this book possible.

On December 19 and 20 the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Glee Clubs presented their annual songfest, Do You Hear What I Hear? The sophomores opened the program with "People Look East" accompanied by junior dancers. "Twas the Night Before Christmas" and "The Twelve Days of Christmas," sung by the juniors, shifted the atmosphere to a lighter tone. Soloists Sherry Joerg, Linda Vogt, and Karen Steggeman exhibited unusual skill. A religious spirit dominated the second half of the songfest given by the Senior Glee Club. Renditions of "Wolcum Yole" and "This Little Babe" from Ceremony of Carols combined old English with the new. For the grand finale the seniors sang the title song "Do You Hear What I Hear?"

Under the able direction of Sister Mary Pauline and Sister Stephen Christine the glee clubs work throughout the year to learn old and new melodies. Songs covering various moods and tempos enable glee club members to acquire a deeper appreciation of good music.

Goodbye Mount Notre Dame
by Gayle Lindhorst '65

How do you say "Goodbye"
To something dear as the dearest friend?
How do you walk out the door,
Putting everything to an end?

Is it "Goodbye" already?
Is seems just yesterday I said "Hello,"
Are my four years really over,
Is it really time to go?

Whatever became of that little girl
Who first entered Mt. Notre Dame?
She was so shy and frightened
It's funny, we're one in the same.

No more shall I receive demerits
For disobeying in her halls,
No more precious secrets
Will I confide within her walls.

No more will I stroll with good friends
To plan the weekend ahead,
No more shall we kneel together
And pray for the things we dread.

How well do I remember her comfort
Through problems of my teenage years,
How well she could be trusted
To secretly hide my tears.

How well do I remember lunchtime
And the bragging about our guys.
Then there were the other days
When the brags turned to cries.

Also I remember her guiding ways,
Which were frowned upon many times,
And how wallets were opened reluctantly
To pay those certain dimes.

I remember the first time we were together,
And too soon there shall be a last,
But it shall never be completely gone
For memories shall bring back the past.

Goodbye dear Notre Dame
Thank you for all your love,
Thank you for bringing me nearer
To the Father so high above.

Goodbye dear Notre Dame
With tears I shall be on my way,
For I know I can never, never return
To that girl of yesterday.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE SENIORS

JUNIORS

In 1859 overcrowded conditions at the Sixth Street Boarding School caused the Sisters of Notre Dame to acquire some new property and build a new school. The property which they purchased for this purpose was the Edwards' Estate in Reading, Ohio. At that time Notre Dame Building was built, and in 1860 Mount Notre Dame came into existence as a boarding school. Its first student body consisted of thirty pupils, most of whom had attended Sixth Street prior to this time.

Soon after the opening of the "Mount," the Civil War began. Since there were girls from both the North and the South in the school, much tact was needed to keep peace among them. Minnie Sherman, the daughter of General Sherman, was one of the pupils at the time; and when her famous father made his "March to the Sea," the relations among the girls must have become quite strained. The "Mount" itself had some rebel visitors in 1863 when Morgan and his troops went through looking for horses.

The chapel that is still used today was consecrated on December 10, 1868. However, many changes and improvements have occurred since that time.

With the increase in the number of pupils expansion became necessary so a new unit for music rooms was built. A building connecting the chapel and St. Joseph's building was also erected.

In 1898 the Alumnae Association of Mount Notre Dame was also established.

With the continued increase of boarders and the influx of day students it became necessary to expand again. Therefore, in 1905, St. Mary's Hall was erected, and the following year the gymnasium was built.

In 1910 Mount Notre Dame celebrated its Golden Jubilee. For the occasion a marble altar for the chapel was donated by a former pupil. The stained-glass windows and the hand-carved Stations of the Cross were also donated. Many festivities marked the close of half a century of existence. These festivities included the Golden Jubilee Alumnae Reunion.

In 1919 the "flu" epidemic brought great sadness to Mount Notre Dame. Three pupils died as a result of the disease.

The Parent-Teacher Association was formed in 1930. In 1936 they united their efforts with the Alumnae Association to make the Diamond Jubilee celebration a huge success. During this year the boarding school became a day school and in the intervening years Mount Notre Dame Academy opened its doors to all classes from kindergarten through high school. In 1956, when it became a Diocesan high school, the name was changed to Mount Notre Dame High School. As each Academy class graduated and a new Diocesan one took its place, need for more room was evident so the kindergarten and grade school were closed.

Mount Notre Dame celebrated its centenary in 1960. The one hundredth class was also the first Diocesan class to graduate from the "Mount." To help celebrate the anniversary, a great Songfest was performed by the Glee Clubs.

As the enrollment increased, it again became evident that more room was needed. Plans were made for the construction of a new school, and ground-breaking ceremonies for the new Mount Notre Dame High School were held in 1964. This school will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the 1965-1966 school year.

melody: "The Days of Wine and Roses"

The days here at our Mountain
Now draw to an end, leaving every friend
Cherished memories of all the things we've done.
We'll treasure every one for all the years to come.

The prom, the underclassmen,
And our Senior play, fun on Mission Day,
Songfests and the time we spent rehearsing parts
Will have a special place in our hearts.

Exams, our little sisters,
Uniforms we wore, work on Mountain Lore,
Mediatrix and our teachers' cheerful ways,
Our studies and Class Day, the Queen we crowned in May.

The rings we wear so proudly
Pledge our loyalty to dear MND.
With Our Lady's help towards our goals we strive,
